About

Samaritan. 2X Stroke survivor. Super mom.
Seasoned broadcast journalist.
Secily is a woman who can do it all.

Secily Wilson is a best-selling author of, "She Said the P Word", the founder of WOW Legacy Group, a Telly Award Winning Broadcast Journalist, and former Mrs. Florida International.

There's little veteran broadcast journalist, Secily Wilson hasn't survived. Two strokes didn't stop her, one was even live on air. Divorce and losing her job didn't derail her; these pitfalls only lead her to her passion. She is a woman who overcomes through sheer will power, and continues to thrive! Secily leads powerfully using her voice to inspire and influence the world!

Secily aims to help other women make it through the hardships of life, she wrote a book of her lessons and tools of survival and is the founder of WOW Legacy Group, a growing Central Florida nonprofit with a mission to empower, educate, encourage and inspire women facing life adversity.

She is often asked, "How did you go from Broadcast News to the nonprofit sector?" Her answer is simple. "My transition wasn't a choice. Sometimes you are pushed into your purpose. After experiencing a series of unexpected life adversities, my life quickly fell apart. One of my favorite quotes is, "In order to find yourself, you must lose yourself in the service of others." The philanthropic bug bit me. My gifts gave me the opportunity to merge my profession with my passion; "Service above self."

Secily says her greatest role is being Mommy to her daughters, Chrissy and Nicole. She is even more proud of her newest title-Gina to her granddaughter, Amari Elizabeth. Her philanthropy and community involvement support by being an active member of the LBV Rotary Club, American Heart Association, Circle of Red Member and National Association of Black Journalists. Secily volunteers with a variety of organizations throughout the region, including passionate interests for stroke awareness and curbing domestic violence.

Secily translates her special interests and her life experiences into motivational words of encouragement. She engages diverse audiences, offering life enhancing advice as a nationally celebrated speaker.
